

I don't think it's possible to love you without jeopardizing our friendship. Should that be worded as a question?

2A: Is moral seriousness more

Fenny's testimony, assembled from letters to Fred and Mike: (Dear Fred) . . . Have you received the latest shipment of garbage from the yo-yo? Excuse me, but I cannot seem to temper that ~~apixix~~ judgment no matter how many days I allow to pass. It seems absurd for me, a mere-than-slightly-flippel-out graduate student in philosophy of mathematics, to think of reprimanding someone for their lack of respect for reality, but what the hell does he think he's doing? (Dear Mike) . . . I thought David's letter good, and your reply flippant, and ungrateful."

Testimony may support contention about honesty and humor!

21. Are such mundane concerns and questions of significance to the dialogue of law and conscience?

22. The belief in human equality is contrary to abundant worldly evidence. Are actions so meditated comic?

23. Complete honesty is peculiar. Is honesty legally humorous?

24. Can one be criminally serious without being morally serious, or morally serious without being criminally serious?

25. The Undesireable discharge was awarded unfairly. The discharge desired is "Honorable".
