

Dear David,

I de net hesitate te call your letter a "classic." It practically gives me a hangever just te leek at it.

In many parts of the world today weeper-sellers perform essential services to society. Their agents go tearing down the streets, behind forebears. I tell you, that's no picnic with racy devils.

I have a riddle for you: what do legal judgements count? Answer: Cases. Years.

Well, (gibberish."

I'm sure your letter will be quite metridental to my case. That's a very exact term, it means "womb with teeth."

I'm sorry to hear that about Isaac. I always felt the lad had a let of potential.

It's true, you know, I did join the Air Force because of draft fear. It can be pretty heady stuff, I'll admit. Especially with a marcon beret. You know, we ate thrills for breakfast. Yes---What the girls wouldn't do for a marcon beret!---- I never found out!!

I became very religious when I was in the Air Force. In Texas I bought a Bible that weighs 15 lbs.

It's exciting to hear that our dialogue has involved other participants. I thought I was the only one hearing voices.

There's one thing I have to complain about. You say I have committed no vile and horrible crime. In all honesty I'd have to confess that this is just not so, but it would take too much paper. However, would you like to buttfuck?

Hew anyone could assent to the bargain of inner peace at the cost of self-deception is certainly beyond my means, and beyond the means of anyone with a theology undiluted with practical considerations. How God will reward us God knows.

Lest justice be denied except for good and sufficient reason, I think we'd better flip a coin.

leve,

"Whacha get?"

"A map.

There's Africa!"

"Where's Tisefthee?"

All testimeny will be submitted. . . to everyone. Everyone with any interest or contribution to the case will have, as best I am able to supply, equal access to the hearing.

All the particulars may not be interesting to everyone, but I believe it is a point of courtesy, if not high circus.

- 21. It is the cententien of this appeal that such mundame concerns and questions are of significance to the dialogue of law and conscience.
- 22. I was awarded an Undesireable discharge "for the seriousness of the crimes committed." It is the centention of this appeal that the crimes committed were humanous.
- 23. The crimes were humanous because the dectrine of divinely established human equality is centrary to common sense, and the abundant evidence of history and economics. Actions so meditated create comedy.
- 24. In the conduct of the crimes was manifest the lack of a common sensibility, and a striving for honesty that is known to be the habit of the peculiar.
- 25. The character of the crimes must be considered humarous ----fer who else would appeal on such a basis?
- 26. The pivotal issue is neither moral seriousness, nor mental capacity, but whether one can be criminally serious without being morally serious, and vice versa. It is the cententien of this appeal that meral seriousness constitutes mental insanity, or criminal comedy.
- 27. The discharge rating I desire is "Henerable".
